Lesson Six Oral Practice

A: Expecting a letter from your prospect.

- 1. Ask B whether B's prospect has gone to Beijing for a month.
- 2. Ask B whether B has got a letter from his/her prospect yet.
- 3. Tell B that you heard that B's prospect has been living with his/her aunt in Beijing, and his/her aunt is fond of introducing good prospects to people.
- Ask B whether or not B's boy/girl friend's aunt has already introduced a good prospect to B's prospect so that B's prospect has forgotten B.
- 5. Ask B if B's prospect has found a new boy/girlfriend in Beijing. What B will think about it.
- B: Talk about how you miss your prospect.
- 1. Ask B whether B misses his/her prospect a lot?
- 2. Tell B that you have felt the same. Sometimes you want to get involved with something so you can forget him/her, but the more you want to forget him/her, the more you can't.
- 3. Tell B that you did the same thing last night, but the line was either busy or no one answered, but after dialing many times, at last you got through.
- 4. Tell B that unfortunately the operator told you that your boy/girlfriend wasn't there, and you wanted to leave a message for him/her, but the operator hung up. Darn it!
- C: Talk about breaking up with your prospect.
- 1. Ask B whether B is fond of his/her "prospect" very much.
- 2. Ask B what B's parents say about B's prospect.
- 3. Tell B that whether or not s/he's a MIT Student isn't very important. The most important thing is whether your prospect is a kind-hearted person or not.

- 1. Tell A that yes, he/she has gone to Beijing for almost a month.
- 2. Tell A that no. You have been expecting a letter from your prospect since he/she got to Beijing.
- Tell A that it's true. That is why you are worried about. Because you haven't got either phone calls or a letter from your, Prospect, it makes you worry even more.
- 4. Tell A that you don't think that is the case because you are sure your boy/girl friend loves you so much that he/she can't break up with you.
- 5. Tell A that if it is the case, you will be heartbroken.
- 1. Tell A that yes, you miss him/her very much. Because you miss him/her so much you often can't fall asleep.
- 2. Tell A that yes, whenever you close your eyes, you think of him/her. Tell A that your parents are going out this weekend and you will take this opportunity to call your prospect.
- 3. Ask A whether his/her prospect was there, and whether he/she has got used living in Taibei.
- 4. Tell A that you feel sorry A. Ask A to try to make a call tonight to see whether his/her prospect is there. Wish him/her good luck.
- 1. Tell B that you are, but your parents aren't fond of him/her.
- 2. Tell A that your parents say that even though he is very smart, he's not a MIT student.
- 3. Tell A that you agree, but your parents asked you to break up with your prospect as soon as possible.

MIT OpenCourseWare http://ocw.mit.edu

21G.103 Chinese III (Regular) Fall 2003

For information about citing these materials or our Terms of Use, visit: http://ocw.mit.edu/terms.