Rebecca Weintraub, MD is the Faculty Director of the Global Health Delivery (GHD) Project at Harvard University. She is an Associate Physician and Hospitalist at Brigham and Women's Hospital in the Division of Global Health Equity and the Department of Medicine, and she is an Instructor at Harvard Medical School. The GHD Project has published over 30 Harvard Business School case studies with Harvard Business Publishing, available online at no cost to the public. Dr. Weintraub is the co-faculty lead for the GHD Summer Intensive, a collaborative training program between Harvard Medical School and Harvard School of Public Health to introduce key principles in global health delivery to providers and implementers. In 2008, Dr. Weintraub launched GHDonline.org, a network of virtual communities that connects global health professionals from over 170 countries and 2,770 organizations. Her research projects, funded by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, World Health Organization, the Global Fund, and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, focus on strategies to generate value-based delivery in global health. She co-founded Jumpstart, the largest AmeriCorps program in the nation, and serves as a technical advisor to Ashoka, promoting the work of health entrepreneurs. Dr. Weintraub graduated from Yale University, Stanford Medical School, and completed her medical training at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

15.232 Business Model Innovation: Global Health in Frontier Markets
Fall 2013